The Al Stiefel Room

Those who knew RMAF founder Al Stiefel remember him for his spirit of inclusiveness and his passion for high quality sound. As one person put it, "... And that is what Al had made of all of us, friends, a community of great people who happen to be music lovers."

In remembrance of Al, his wife, Marjorie Baumert, honors his life and his passion for music by having the Al Stiefel Legacy Room at Rocky Mountain Audio Fest. "I think we could all agree that a large part of Al's legacy was his inclusiveness and ability to welcome newcomers into the RMAF fold. He loved to champion the underdog with the great idea and applauded those who had the vision and bravery to take a chance. He really did celebrate sound in so many ways! Al's Legacy Room is funded by other exhibitors and industry supporters who wish to extend Al's gift of inclusiveness, and will go to a new manufacturer with an innovative product, or one who simply needs a little help."

Past Recipients of The Al Stiefel Legacy Room

- 2009 – Carnegie Acoustics
- 2010 – Bamberg Audio
- 2011 – Musical Concepts/Musical Design
- 2012 – PranaFidelity
- 2013 – TFC
- 2014 – 3beez

The 2014 winner of the Al Stiefel Award is 3beez — a young, Colorado-based company with an innovative new computer audio product: a complete system of hardware and software that provides music lovers who are passionate about music (esp. classical music, opera and jazz) a way to organize, catalog, and play their music. Al loved to champion underdogs like 3beez who are willing to bring an innovative idea to the market and brave enough to go head-to-head against venerable and more established companies.
